

AMERICANS SEEK SAFETY ON YACHT AT CAPE HAYTIEN

Revolutionists Capture Port Just After U. S. Gunboat Steams Away and Owner of Pleasureboat Tries to Care for Foreigners Although Denied Right to Use Arms. Women Taken on Board — American Battleships Rushing to Scene

CAPE HAYTIEN, July 20.—Cape Haytien is in the hands of the revolutionists and the sole protection of Americans and other foreigners at this port is an American yacht which arrived here yesterday morning.

The United States gunboat Petrel sailed from here several hours prior to the arrival of the yacht, leaving American interests unprotected, and when the yacht came into the harbor her owner, Mr. Dick, found the town in a state of semianarchy. The insurgents were rapidly approaching and President Simon and his troops had left Fort Liberté for Port au Prince. There were rumors also that the cruiser Antoine Simon was on her way to bombard some of the ports. As is customary under such circumstances, most of the residents took sides with the revolutionists and soon the authorities were unable to check the disorders. Mr. Dick notified the officials that he would not permit any bombardment by Haytien warships and would protect the foreigners.

Early last night fighting broke out in the streets. The searchlight of the yacht was kept playing on the house in which the Americans who were brought in from working on the railroad had collected with their wives. The civil authorities aided in this work. At daybreak, however, the government was overthrown, the revolutionists had occupied the town and the streets were filled with excited men shooting at random. All the American women were taken aboard the yacht while the foreign consulates were filled with refugees. These included generals who had opposed the revolution and the local authorities, in protecting whom the French consul was slightly wounded.

A request was made to the United States authorities by the yacht owner for release from the bond given before leaving New York not to use arms, and an answer was returned that there was no authority for such release. This practically denied the right to protect the lives of Americans but notwithstanding preparations were continued to afford such protection in whatever way was deemed advisable.

The whole American colony claimed immediate protection and it is pointed out that serious results may follow if permission is denied the American yacht owner to use the guns with which the vessel is supplied.

Rushing Warships to Scene.

WASHINGTON, July 20.—With only one little gunboat in the waters of Hayti to safeguard American interests, threatened by a formidable revolution that seems spreading hourly, the navy department is making a strenuous endeavor to rush adequate protection to the scene.

The fast scout cruiser Chester today was dispatched from the mule war in Long Island sound and ordered to the center of the real strife in Hayti. She

NEW INDICTMENTS AGAINST THREE ALLEGED DYNAMITERS

LOS ANGELES, July 20.—New indictments were returned today by the grand jury against Bert H. Connors, F. Ira Bender and A. B. Mapie, the men accused of having conspired to dynamite the new county hall of records. Bail, as after the former indictments, was fixed at $25,000 each.

The men are charged in the indictment with having maliciously attempted to deposit and explode dynamite, nitroglycerin and other chemical compounds and destroy buildings, and to injure, intimidate and terrify human beings.

Similar indictments were returned against the men by the grand jury some weeks ago, but were quashed by Judge Wilkin when the prisoners' counsel entered a demurrer claiming that the rights of the men had not been safeguarded when they themselves were arrested by the jurors.

Meet in Peace Where First They Battled

MANASSAS, Va., July 20.—The blood stained award of Bull Run is again peopled with those who with bitter hatred and feverish anxiety waited 50 years ago today to commence the first battle of the rebellion. But now the rival camps of the blue and gray house men bowed with years meet in peace and brotherhood and their time is spent in greeting brother soldiers, recalling incidents of days gone by and preparing for the rigors of the crowning day of the Manassas National jubilee to be held tomorrow on the semicentennial anniversary of the bloody battle of Bull Run.

President Taft and the governor of Virginia will speak.

Memories of the Civil war recalled by the Manassas National jubilee. A war time print of the battle of Bull Run July 21, 1861, and the two generals who opposed each other in the engagement. BEN. BROWN TAKES $4,000 IN DEMONSTRATION

SPALTING LEAD TAKEN ON TRAIN

Benjamin Brown of Denver will be the new lessee of the Spaulding house, this city succeeding John Leonard.

Although the papers in transferring the lease from Leonard to Brown have not yet been turned over, Brown is already in charge of the hostelry. His lease on the property, it is said, will be for two years with an option to extend it. Leonard decided to go out of the hotel business in Colorado Springs a short time ago when the Spaulding liquor license was revoked by the City Council. Brown will conduct a dining room in connection with the hotel, and it is understood, will apply for a liquor license.

The new liquor ordinance provides that whenever any license has been revoked "for cause," and after a hearing and determination that the licensee has violated the ordinance or has been revoked after court conviction, no person may be granted a license to sell liquor on the premises in question unless the owner of the premises had taken action to evict the tenant before charges were brought against the licensee in court or in Council.

This does not apply, however, to the Spaulding case, since Leonard's license was revoked "without cause," at the Council's discretion. This power is given the Council in subdivision A of Section 18, while the exclusion of a liquor license after a revocation is specifically confined to the above cases provided for in subdivision B and C of section 18.

KANSAS CITY WOMAN IS ROBBED ON WAY HERE.

Thief Gets Chamois Bag Containing Diamonds and $100 in Money.

While asleep in a berth on a Santa Fe train bound for Colorado Springs, Mrs. H. G. Seymour, a wealthy and prominent society woman of Kansas City, Mo., was robbed early yesterday morning of a bag containing diamonds worth $4,000 and nearly $100 in cash.

As a precaution against thieves, Mrs. Seymour carried the jewels in a small chamois bag, and upon retiring to her berth pinned the bag inside her night gown. The thief evidently worked with fingers as light and swift as those of the "Artful Dodger" or Charlie Bates, and took the bag from its hiding place without awakening Mrs. Seymour. She did not discover the theft until the train rolled into Fort Dodge, Kan., yesterday morning.

The alarm was quickly spread through the train and when it was apparent that the jewels had not slipped down behind the berth or that Mrs. Seymour had mislaid them in the dressing room, railroad detectives were put on the case. They boarded the train at La Junta, and came to Colorado Springs with Mrs. Seymour. There is no clew to the thief. The diamonds are principally in the form of rings, eurbursts and brooches.

Mrs. Seymour, her mother, Mrs. W. E. Lewis, and a sister, Mrs. A. W. Ellett, reached Colorado Springs yesterday and registered at the Alta Vista hotel, where they expect to spend the summer. Mrs. Seymour was too much upset as a result of losing the jewels to tell further details of the robbery to a reporter. She and her mother and sister are periodical visitors to Colorado Springs, and in 1908, as well as in former years, spent several weeks at the Alta Vista.

NEED WING REESES HELP TO PREPARE FOR STEEL

DID NOT SEND WORD TO SUPPORT LORIMER.

Only Told Lumberman That Senator Was Not Objectional to Taft.

WASHINGTON, July 20.—The story of the administration's attitude toward the election of Senator Lorimer as told by former Senator Aldrich of Rhode Island and the activities of R. J. Shields of Springfield, Wis., an insurance agent in the hearing affidavits from with which the investigation, were the features of the Senate Lorimer committee hearing today.

Instead of sending Edward Hines the Chicago lumberman to Springfield with word from Washington that Lorimer should be elected, Mr. Aldrich testified that he told Hines that President Taft was not supporting the candidacy of anyone, but that Lorimer was not objectionable to him. The former senator said he told Hines previously that the President had no objection to A. J. Hopkins or Henry S. Boutell for the senatorship.

Mr. Aldrich said he had three or four conversations with Hines about the Illinois election but could not recall on whose initiative these occurred.

Asked Attitude of President

Mr. Hines continued Mr. Aldrich said at the first conversation that in his judgment Hopkins could not be elected and he asked me what the attitude of the President was. I said the President was desirous of the election of a Republican and while naturally, he was friendly to Hopkins because of the primary result and perhaps other reasons still he did not intend to take any active part in trying to influence the election of Hopkins or any other candidate.

Did you say there were several schedules coming up in the Senate and that it was very important to have every Republican vote to assist in the passage of them? asked Attorney Marble reading from Hines testimony.

I do not think that I said anything to him about schedules, replied Mr. Aldrich.

Mr. Aldrich testified that their next talk on the Illinois situation occurred when Hines came to him with the statement that there seemed to be a possibility of agreeing on Henry S. Boutell then representative in Congress for Illinois.

Later, continued Mr. Aldrich, I reported to Mr. Hines that the President was only anxious to have a Republican elected and that he was satisfied with Boutell's Republicanism.

Wants Cost Sheets Especially.

The commission was seeking particularly the figures and facts relating to cost sheets of the steel corporation, Attorney Lindabury for the steel corporation, said he was ready to enter into an agreement with the committee to furnish the cost sheets if it was guaranteed that information of value to the steel corporation be kept from the trust competitors.

Chairman Stanley read a speech of Judge E. H. Gary chairman of the board of directors of the steel corporation made to the board at a meeting in 1906 relating to the government's investigation. In this Mr. Gary said:

"Our finance committee has been in close touch with this matter all the time. We have been in frequent and almost constant communication with Commissioner Garfield and more or less with the President himself concerning these matters."

"Up to today they have made no complaint of us whatever, but we do not know any better than you do what may be the future. We are trying to be frank and accommodating to the department and we suppose we have an understanding that we will not be unnecessarily injured and that we will not wrongfully be charged without having an opportunity to show the facts."

Wants to Know What Food Experts Have Done and the Cost

WASHINGTON, July 20.—In connection with charges against Dr. Harry W. Wiley, chief of the chemistry bureau, the House committee on agricultural department expenditures today called on the secretary of agriculture for complete information regarding the cost and the work of the Remsen board of experts on pure food matters.

The committee decided that the board's work was an integral part of the Wiley case which it will investigate in connection with the recent recommendation of the department personnel board that Dr. Wiley be dismissed for a technical violation of the law under which pure food experts are employed.

The committee wants to know what the Remsen board has cost the government, what work it has accomplished, what recommendations it has made and what has been done with those recommendations.

Part of the papers asked for last week in connection with the Wiley charges were received today. The others are with President Taft and if these are available before the Remsen papers the committee probably will immediately proceed with the investigation. The Remsen board was appointed by President Roosevelt to decide the removal of Dr. Wiley from the state of soda case. Dr. Wiley held that it was injurious to health and that its use in food preparation and preservation should not be allowed. The Remsen board held that when used in certain small quantities benzoate of soda could not be considered harmful.

ST. LOUIS, Mo. July 20—The petition of 233 creditors for a blanket receivership of the property, companies and enterprises of E. G. Lewis was granted in the United States circuit court today by Judges Dyer and McPherson.

The court's decision will take the property out of the hands of the reorganization syndicate which has been in charge of it for nearly three months. The St. Louis Union Trust company is the receiver. In his opinion, Judge McPherson compared the Lewis schemes to the Mississippi bubble and other historic get-rich-quick projects and declared that if a fraction of the allegations made in the receivership petition were true the Lewis affair constituted one of the most gigantic frauds of the century.

The receivership suit was filed June 17. It was alleged that the reorganization plan was a scheme to keep Lewis' half to himself and to keep the creditors further of their just claims. A foreclosure suit also was filed against the University Heights Realty and Development company, the Peoples Savings Trust company, the Metropolitan Life Insurance company and Nathan Frank a trustee.

Judge Dyer early in June appointed the St. Louis Union Trust company receiver for one tract of land owned by the University Heights Realty and Development company. The court has since reported that it found the books relating to the property in a jumble, with many gross entries and with a tangle of debts with other Lewis corporations, particularly the Lewis Publishing company and the Peoples Savings Trust company.

HUGE SKELETON FOUND BY IDAHO WORKMEN

MONTPELIER, Idaho, July 20—The Smithsonian Institution will soon be enriched with the skeleton of a huge prehistoric animal excavated this week from a sand hill five miles west of this town. One knuckle identified as a knee joint measured 15 inches in diameter. The finders believe they have unearthed the skeleton of a mastodon. It is in a good state of preservation and is being handled carefully in order that it may be acceptable to the national museum at Washington.

RECEIVING ROOM

CLAIMS NO LAW BROKEN—WIFE SAID TO BE COLLEGE GRAD. DATE AND AUTHOR.

Thomas McCleave also known as "Blondell, the opium smuggler," and his wife, Dorothy, who were arrested here last Saturday charged with violating the United States internal revenue laws, were held in Denver yesterday for a further investigation of their case. McCleave is under two indictments returned by a federal grand jury for importing, smuggling and preparing opium for the trade, and his young wife is also detained by the authorities as a witness.

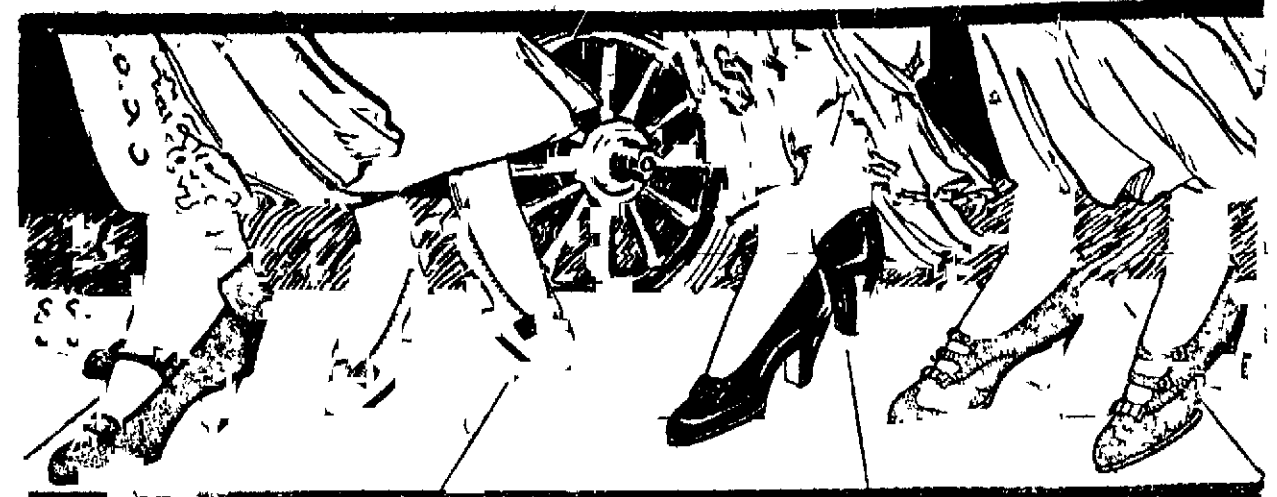

McCleave admits receiving shipments of raw opium from El Paso and Juarez and that in Colorado it was cooked and prepared for smoking, according to the Denver officials. He declared at the trial that he alone is responsible if any of the government laws were violated, but maintains that it is not illegal for him to dispose of prepared opium in quantities less than one pound. His wife insists is innocent of the whole matter but the Springs detectives, who worked on the case and made the arrests believe she is the more important of the two alleged smugglers.

After the hearing in Denver, United States Commissioner Sanford C. Hinsdale served notice on George Eads, a Denver city patrolman, who assisted in investigating the McCleave's that the government will not tolerate any "third degree" methods in dealing with the prisoners and that if the government did not have a case warranting the holding of the McCleave's for probable cause he would have discharged them because of Eads' alleged attack.

Both McCleave and his wife are drug users and two fancy smoking outfits were taken from their rooms when they were arrested by Detectives Rankin and Gavin.

"If I could get someone to go my bail," said Mrs. McCleave, in Denver, "I would not be afraid of the coming trial. If I can only get out I can get the $1,000 for Tommy's bail. He is so sick. In jail they won't give him any more. If he doesn't get it, the doctors have all told us his heart will stop beating."

Mrs. McCleave said that just before her twentieth birthday she met McCleave and they were married, shortly thereafter. She graduated from the Ohio State university with high honors and has frequently written for Collier's weekly magazine. It is said she began taking opium about a year ago, she says when her husband was arrested on a similar charge in Fort Worth. Unless bail is furnished the McCleave's will remain in jail until the federal grand jury meets in November.

Plan Today for Meeting of Freight Officials in Colorado Springs Soon

Headquarters for automobilists who will contest for prizes in the decorated automobile parade which officially opens the great week of the Colorado Springs carnival were thrown open yesterday morning, and from now on they may be used by contestants seeking advice or assistance. A committee of local women is in charge of the place, which is located at 326 North Tejon, and all day yesterday they were kept suggesting tasteful arrangements for decorations. In addition to helping decorate the cars the ladies will contract to do all the work necessary in that line, under the direction of the car owners.

Displays by local professional decorators and flower makers will be placed today in the rooms of the committee where they will be on exhibition. More entries are being received daily, and according to the parade committee, the affair will be a great success. The feature lately announced concerning the exhibition by the different states represented in the Pike's Peak region promises to be of special interest. Already arrangements are being made for the state displays to occupy a prominent position in the parade. Chief Marshal L. E. Curtis is getting his force of aides in readiness to handle the crowds in the best possible shape. To keep constantly in track of the work as it progresses the parade committee holds meetings twice a week at its rooms in The Gazette building.

SAUERBRAU

NOTE: BANDS AT THE CARNIVAL

Inspiring Music Will Be Feature—Location Grandstand Decided—More Floats.

Band music from several of the best aggregations in the state is to be the special feature of the attractions for the Colorado Springs carnival. The executive committee yesterday closed arrangements with the Elks famous Indian band of 100 pieces, the Colorado Midland band of 40 pieces and the Moose band of 30 pieces to furnish music on all public occasions of the celebration throughout the carnival week. In the big civic and pioneer parade the three bands will take part assisted by bands from Colorado City and Manitou and at the mid-west shows and athletic meets in Roswell park band selections will be played in one or other of the aggregations every day.

The work of preparing the 40,000 tickets for the numerous attractions of the carnival has been completed by W. W. Ulick of the Colorado Title and Trust Co. who will also have charge of the selling campaign with the exception of the tickets for reserved seats which will be handled by S. N. Nye at the Opera House box office. Mr. Ulick has 15 different kinds of tickets on hand and in a day or two will publish the list of prices showing the cost of admission for every attraction in the big celebration. He is planning a selling campaign that promises to be a whirlwind and expects to spring some pleasurable surprises on the committee when the question of results is considered. There is no question but that the tickets will go like peanuts at a ball game and those wanting reserved seats at any of the attractions should act promptly and avoid the rush.

Grand Stand on Cascade.

The executive committee has decided to erect a grand stand on the east side of Cascade avenue, just north of Bijou street for the accommodation of the Governor and his party and other officials who will formally open the carnival on the morning of July 31 and the accommodation of about 500 who will witness the parade for the opening ceremonies of the automobile parade and the civic pioneer parade the following day. The sale of reserved seats for all these occasions has already been very large and the 30 boxes are practically all disposed of. Those wanting reserved seats should call up Mr. Nye today as the supply is limited and will not last long.

One of the interesting features of the civic and pioneer parade on Tuesday, the second day of carnival week will be the showing made by Colorado Springs and Pike's Peak fraternal orders. The Yeomen Redmen Knights of Columbus and Knights of Pythias have all announced their intention to take part in the exhibition on masses. The Redmen will have a big moving theater van 40 feet long for their float. The float will carry a well executed display of forest and Indian life and will be made more attractive by the number of Colorado Springs women who are to appear in it. The women represent the Pocahontas auxiliary of the order.

Other Orders Busy.

The Yeomen have appointed a committee consisting of Charles Short, Dr. W. N. Casely and Mrs. Florence Benson to arrange and build their float and they are confident that it will be one of the best seen in the entire line. Chairman Arthur Perkins has been notified and the official entry has been filed for the Knights of Columbus, who will try to get up the most appropriate display shown. They keep their plans secret and are preparing a surprise for the occasion.

The following order executed officially by the Knights of Pythias, is self explanatory, and shows an unexcelled interest in the event.

"Thief" Is Girl Chum Who Took Jewelry to Play Practical Joke

While the police were looking for the jewelry recently "stolen" from the home of Attorney J. L. Rickard, 323 Monroe avenue, Miss Rickard and her chum, Miss Ammerman, who is the "sneak thief," were enjoying the joke immensely. Wednesday afternoon Miss Ammerman went over to see her chum and finding the door unlocked and no one at home she walked in. Seeing a pocketbook, gold necklace and bracelet belonging to Miss Rickard lying on a dresser, she thought it would be a good joke to take them with her and listen to the story she told. She says that she did not see her chum that day and forgot all about the jewelry until she heard of the police looking for the robber, when she returned the articles.

"Skiddoo" Automobile Ruins Summer Finery and Breaks Speed Law

Automobile No. 23, bearing that number as a visitor's license, whizzed by four pedestrians in Colorado city yesterday afternoon, indiscriminately throwing mud and dirty water over summer millinery and hot weather high-dashery as it sped at a rate of 40 miles an hour up the street bound for Manitou. The party in their ruined finery ran after the machine, vainly calling to the driver to stop and threatening to do really shocking things in case he did.

Quickly they hurried back to the police station and sent a hurry-up phone call to Detective Wolfe at Manitou who went out immediately on the case. While Wolfe searched and the automobile sped on the four dished victims stood in the police station taking inventory of their ruined belongings.

CAMPING GROUNDS POPULAR.

The popular camping grounds in the west part of the city seem never to have vacant spaces. Early in the season they were filled and as fast as one party moves out another one takes its place. These grounds together with those east of Manitou are among the best for the purpose in the region containing ideal places for pitching a tent and running a motor. He also laid much stress on the cool pleasant weather in this region which is all the more noteworthy in contrast to the hot humid weather of the east.

FLOAT NEARLY COMPLETED.

Work on the float which Street Commissioner Geiger is building for the Springs carnival parade is progressing rapidly. Very little remains to be done but finishing touches. The log cabin which is an exact representation of the old state building is being constructed very substantially. It will be sold at auction after the parade.

COAT AND HAT FOUND.

The coat and hat stolen from C. M. Smith of Colorado Springs in a saloon here recently has been recovered by Detective Payne in a small shack on Grant avenue. The house had previously been searched with no results. Later Payne broke the lock on the door and found the stolen articles between the mattress and springs of a bed. He is on the trail of the thief.

C. C. HAMLIN RETURNS

After an extended absence in Washington D. C. C. C. Hamlin has returned to Colorado Springs expressing his gratification over the already assured success of the Springs carnival and the generally prosperous condition of affairs here. He also laid much stress on the cool pleasant weather in this region which is all the more noteworthy in contrast to the hot humid weather of the east.

To appreciate Colorado Springs said Mr. Hamlin one must have spent the last few weeks in Washington where the thermometer ranged from 105 to 107 day after day.

Mr. Hamlin looks for the greatest political campaign next year in the history of this country. He says that Taft will be the certain choice of the Republicans for President but that the Democratic nomination is in doubt.

Because his latest play, "The Confession," has brought a death threat from a man in Montreal playwright Hal Reid has obtained permission to carry a revolver.

CONCEALING 30%

To understand how Belmont Place can pay the investor 30% on his money it is necessary to understand where Belmont Place is.

It is in the heart of Denver's new boulevard system.

This boulevard system is changing the city's map. It marks an epoch in the city's history.

Belmont Place would sell at a good, stiff price now if it were nothing but a slough.

However it isn't a slough. It is almost the highest ground anywhere in Denver—smooth, hard and hearty.

Around it the view is perfect. Beyond are 150 miles of mountain scenery. Right at hand, a street car line straight into the business district via beautiful City Park and Seventeenth avenue.

Altogether the location is ideal. Not just figuratively ideal; really ideal.

That is the first big reason why Belmont Place pays the investor 30%.

There are several other reasons almost as big.

We cannot tell them all in this space. But Mr. Gardner can tell them, if you will call on him at 21 North Tejon street.

He is in Colorado Springs just for that purpose—to submit the evidence and the proofs to show that Belmont Place really does pay 30%.

COULD LAY PIN IN CRACKS. Four Long Years of Eczema. Only Relief in Scratching. Used One Set of Cuticura Remedies. Hands Entirely Well.

"I can truthfully say Cuticura Remedies have cured me of four long years of eczema. About four years ago I noticed some little pimples coming on my little finger, and not giving it any attention, it soon became worse and spread all over my hands. I would have them in water for a long time, they would burn like fire and large cracks would come. I could lay a pin in them. After using all the salves I could think of, I went to three different doctors, but all did me no good. The only relief I got was scratching. "So after hearing so much about the wonderful Cuticura Remedies, I purchased one complete set, and after using them three days my hands were much better. Today my hands are entirely well, one set being all I used." (Signed) Miss Etta Barber, R. F. D. 2, Spring Lake, Mich., Sept. 26, 1910.
No stronger evidence than this could be given of the success and economy of the Cuticura Remedies in the treatment of torturing, disgusting humors of the skin. A single hot bath with Cuticura Soap and a gentle anointing with Cuticura Ointment are often sufficient to afford immediate relief in the most distressing cases and permit rest and sleep when all else fails. Cuticura Soap and Ointment are equally effective in preventing, purifying and beautifying the skin, scalp, hair and hands.
Although Cuticura Soap (25c.) and Cuticura Ointment (50c.) are sold throughout the world, a liberal sample of each, with 32-p. book on the skin and scalp, will be mailed free on application to Potter Drug & Chem. Corp., Dept. 22, 30 York V.

FRIDAY, JULY 21, 1911.

HELP IT ALONG.

ALTHOUGH Colorado Springs and the Pikes Peak region will, of course, derive the largest and most immediate benefit from the forthcoming Summer Carnival, it is an advertisement of such importance for all Colorado as to deserve the hearty encouragement of the whole state and particularly all the publicity which the press of neighboring cities and towns can give it.

The Carnival Committee is doing its work so effectively that the presence of tens of thousands of visitors during the week of the celebration is a foregone conclusion; yet the Carnival can not get too much advertising and all the assistance which the rest of the state can extend will not only be appreciated by the people of the Pikes Peak region, but will be of general benefit to Colorado.

The appearance of two of the leading aviators of the country in this city, giving exhibitions with a new type of biplane which it is believed by the makers, the Wright Brothers, will prove a great improvement on any machine heretofore produced, is an event that will turn the attention of the entire country to Colorado. At the same time it will give thousands of people resident in the state their first opportunity to see aeroplanes in actual flight, for which they can thank the enterprise of the Pikes Peak region.

It is confidently expected that at least twenty thousand persons will be attracted here by the aviation meet and other interesting features of the Carnival. Of this number it is certain that a goodly proportion will take advantage of their presence here to visit other parts of the state. Denver, Pueblo, the Cripple Creek District, Canon City and the cities of the Western Slope will all attract their quota of Carnival visitors, and it is safe to say that a "boost" for the whole state will excel the celebration here.

There has begun lately to develop a new spirit of co-operation in this state. It is to be seen in the cultivation of closer relations among the commercial bodies of the various cities; it was strikingly exhibited recently in the heartiness with which other parts of the state endorsed the suggestion that a National Summer Capital be established in Colorado Springs; and whatever aid our neighbors on both sides of the range see fit to give toward making the Carnival a success is sure to bear good fruit in developing still more cordial and intimate relations.

PURIFYING ELECTIONS.

THE country will now look to the House of Representatives to pass the corrupt practices act adopted by the Senate. The upper house seeks to insure the honest election of members of the national legislative body not only by providing for publicity of election expenses but also by setting a maximum limit on the amount expended by each candidate. Following are the more important provisions of the bill:

"No candidate for the Senate or House shall spend in the election more than a sum equal to 10 cents for each voter in his district or state.

"No senatorial candidate shall spend a total of more than $10,000 in the primary and general election, and no candidate for the House shall spend more than $5,000.

"Publicity must be given to all primary campaign contributions and expenditures.

"All general election expenses must be made public before the election, beginning 15 days before election, and making publication each six days until election."

The movement for pure elections is by no means confined to Congress. Close on the heels of the passage of the Senate publicity bill comes the news of similar action on the part of the Massachusetts legislature. The latter body goes even further than the Senate by providing that "whoever is convicted of violating the law relating to corrupt practices in elections shall be deemed ineligible to hold public office for three years, and if a person elected to public office is convicted of corrupt practices, his office shall be vacated and a new election held." By thus holding out an inducement to defeated candidates to take the initiative in conducting investigations and bringing the offenders into court, the bill gives promise of being unusually effective.

PREVENTION IS FASTER THAN CURE.

It is gratifying indeed to see the application of the principle of the ounce of prevention and the pound of cure to politics as well as to medicine. We are at last coming to realize that the most effective way to obtain civic purity is not by prosecuting guilty officials but by preventing the election of corrupt men. And the most practicable method of accomplishing this is through the regulation of campaign expenditures and their publication before, and not after, the election. However promising a nominee's platform may be and however assuring his speeches, the voter cannot be certain of his real affiliations until he knows the source of his campaign fund.

An illustration of the efficacy of publicity of campaign expenses can be drawn from the last municipal campaign in Chicago. A close fight was being waged in the primaries by seven or eight candidates for the majority nomination in each party. Owing to the closeness of the race over half a million dollars, it is estimated, was being spent in advertising, personal letters, canvassing, etc. Ten days before primary day one of the leading newspapers of the city asked that each candidate make a statement of his expenditures. In less than two days such statements were forthcoming from all but one of the contestants. That man was Andrew J. Graham, and because of the revelations that followed his silence he was defeated for the Democratic nomination by Carter H. Harrison, although he had previously been conceded the lead.

The example that has been set by the Senate and by the Massachusetts legislature should be followed by the legislature of every state in the country. Although that alone cannot abolish political corruption, it can at least serve as a step towards the goal that is sought by all intelligent reformers: the election of public officials on their merits and by legitimate means.

SENATORS BY DIRECT VOTE.

From the Christian Science Monitor.
The United States Senate, 64 in the affirmative to 24 in the negative, has adopted the resolution, long under discussion, amending the constitution so that, upon approval of the necessary number of states, it shall provide for the election of members of that body by popular vote. This action undoubtedly has been taken in response to the demand of the people. The question has been before the country at intervals more or less frequent for the last 25 years. The national language has repeatedly placed itself on record in favor of such a change. Political reforms of the different states have urged it. Some of the foremost thinkers of the country have advised it.

It is a remarkable circumstance that the procedure under which the constitution is usually amended has, by a measure, been reversed in the present case. That is to say, the number of states necessary to the final confirmation of a constitutional amendment have in advance expressed in no uncertain terms a desire and a demand for this change. Such resolutions as have been introduced in different legislatures will not, of course, have legal value as approving votes; they serve, however, to assure the country that the amendment will, when submitted in due form, be approved by the requisite number of states.

As adopted by the Senate, the resolution contains an amendment proposed by Senator Brewster of Kansas, which changes it somewhat from the form in which it passed the House. This will necessitate a conference, but an early and satisfactory agreement is anticipated. When it shall be finally adopted and signed by the President, it will remain for the states to speed it on its way. If they manifest the interest that has inspired them so often in the past to urge this reform upon the national legislature, the time should not be far distant when the people will vote for senators as they now vote for representatives.

Time alone will determine the wisdom of the change. Present conditions seem to warrant it. There is no question as to the popular demand for it, and there should be no question as to what the response in a democratic country should be to a popular demand so often and so plainly expressed.

THE RETORT IN KIND.

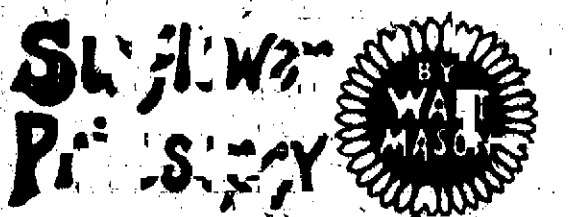

From the Pittsburgh Dispatch.
The proposal of the house of lords to saddle the veto bill with a provision calling for a referendum to the people on measures on which the two chambers cannot agree presents one feature that is characteristic of the Tory campaign management. If this provision were accepted the Conservative house of lords could always hamper any measure of a Liberal ministry by calling for a referendum. But it would never hamper a Conservative ministry in that way, and the check therefore would be wholly on the Liberal government.

Nevertheless, the Liberal indignation at the proposition of such an amendment has hardly been in the way to meet it. A more effective retort in kind would be to say that since the lords are so fond of the referendum, the Liberals are ready to gratify them by an agreement to submit to a vote by the people the issue whether the house of lords as a legislative body shall be abolished. A proposal of this sort would condemn the lordly favor for the referendum to a sudden demise.

CONSERVING NIAGARA.

From the Philadelphia Telegraph.
The project of saving Niagara Falls in all the glory and grandeur that belongs to this wonder of nature is again up before Congress. This is the era of conservation. The American nation has at last aroused from the supine attitude which permitted gigantic and wonderful natural resources to drift out of the national possession through waste or negligence—many of them irretrievably. But the old adage "Better late than never" applies in this case, for even now there are many unexplored and undeveloped resources which can with diligent energetic and foresighted care be preserved for the generations to come. Now that the awakening has occurred there must be no lack of activity in saving what we may. And one of these priceless possessions is Niagara Falls, a bill to conserve which is before Congress.

I ordered some potatoes down at the grocer's store; the price was something awful—I set me down and wrote down the price of the potatoes. The price will stay up there; the crop is quite a failure, "round here" and "everywhere." DISCOURAGING—And so I see I'll have to subsist on beans and crusts; and this it is that grinds me. I cannot blame the trusts. If I could blame Pierp Morgan, and roast old Guggenheim, I'd do without potatoes and have a bully time. The crop has been a failure because the weather's dry. Now I must eat the pumpkin and chew the moldy prune, and know the robber tariff, like Wall Street, is immune. No one will pay attention if I should raise a fuss, and so my heart is broken—there's no one I can cuss. I've pondered till I'm weary, and no way can I see to charge the "later shortage" to iron-souled John D. If I could only work it to make John D. the goat, I'd surely run for office and ask you for your vote.

Copyright, 1911, by
Clara, Mother Linn

IN A recent novel, Elizabeth, the young heroine, in a moment of insane anger with the man she is engaged to and really loves, marries a man for whom she cares nothing.

Of her state of mind afterwards the author writes: "She would fall to thinking with vague amazement that the irretrievable catastrophe was out of all proportion to its cause. It was monstrous that a crazy moment should ruin a whole life—two whole lives—hers and David's. It was as if a pebble should deflect a river from its course and make it turn and overflow its banks."

"Suddenly it seemed to her as she looked across the roaring gulf that separated her from the past that all her life had been just a sunny slope down to the edge of the gulf. All these harmless tempers which had had no results had pushed her to this result. It is not the pebble that turns the current. It is the easy slope that invites it. All her life Elizabeth had been inviting this moment—just as some of us are today inviting hateful tomorrow. When we shall look back from the depths of these tomorrows and see what we have done, then will we cull on the mountains to fall on us and the hills to cover us."

I quote these paragraphs because I think they contain a lesson that more people need than will read the novel. There are no isolated wrong deeds. There are no wrong deeds without consequences. We give way to temper, we tell a lie, we fail a friend, we are cruel or mean or impure in any way and perhaps nothing happens.

And we think we are fortunate because there are no consequences to our acts. But we are wrong. There are always consequences. You think perhaps I mean merely the effect upon the character, and you think you do not need to worry about such vague spiritual consequences as long as there are no material ones. I do mean that, but I mean much more than that. Every act you do affects your character and ultimately your character affects your life. Just as surely as you get the spiritual results you will also get the material consequences.

In another passage in this wonderful novel the author says of Elizabeth: "She gasped at the realization which comes to most of us human creatures sooner or later—that sins may be forgiven, but consequences are eternal."

That is something we all fall to realize until we have to. We are slow to appreciate that all our sins, whether big or small, and that the other small temptations bring on perceptible consequences. It is slowly but surely paving the way for some larger yielding that shall bring life-changing consequences.

The only way you can escape the consequences for weak and wicked acts is to neutralize them by good and strong acts.

You cannot prevent the acid from hurting your hand by trying to wash it off, but you can save yourself from serious burn by promptly neutralizing it with an alkali.

Today is the day for those of us who need it to apply the alkali of self-control and good deeds to our characters.

Why Lysander John Decided to Live

By FRANCIS L. GARSIDE

Lysander John Appleton has not always been as patient and philosophical as we find him in his old age. There was a time when he resented neglect and injustice; when he was hot-headed and impatient, and when he nursed his wrongs, real and imaginary.

Goaded to desperation by an ill-managed home, and a business that didn't always move as if his machinery were oiled, he often thought of the futility of the struggle; and what was, at first, a dim, undefined longing to escape, finally grew with good nursing to the determination to kill himself, and one day he went home with that purpose in mind.

"I am unhappy, of no use to anybody and will be better out of the world," he argued.

He found his wife gone when he reached home. "So much the better," he thought.

"I will cut my throat," he said, and hunted up the butcher knife. But he hacked and slashed and hacked at his throat; and the knife was so dull he couldn't even penetrate the skin. Then he tried the bread knife and was duller than the butcher knife.

"I will try the scissors," he said, but he hunted and hunted and hunted, before he found the scissors, and at last, when almost discouraged, he found them in the pocket of a novel on the parlor table, where Daysey Mayme had used them for a book mark. But they were so dull they wouldn't cut thread, so he gave that up.

Then a Bright Thought came to him. "No wonder," he said, "my wife is a poor housekeeper when she has to use such dull tools in her work and has no place for them; I will not kill myself; I will live and be of use to my family."

So he began to sharpen the knives and scissors and he found the head of the ax and fastened it on, and made himself its custodian, to see that it had a place and was always in it.

He found he had a never ending task to keep knives and scissors sharp, and everything in its place, and was so busy he had no time left for pitying self.

And his wife, with knives and scissors that will actually cut, and someone to tell her where to find them, his reason to be the happiest woman in her neighborhood.

What the Press Agents Say

LARGE OPPORTUNITY TO ENJOY POPULAR BILL

Those who have thus far neglected to attend the Majestic this week would do well not to overlook the fact that tonight ends the engagement of one of the most popular bills in months. It is pre-eminently a comedy offering and contains more laughs than one could shake a stick at. The sketch "Tactics" is a particularly funny and brings out some mighty fine acting. Harry Le Clair's burlesque on Cleopatra is another big merrymaker, although of an entirely different sort. Harry Knox and Mercedes Alvin offer still another line of comedy, singing and talking. That is good, while the Majestic picture, "Scurrying Evidence," is one of the most genuinely funny things imaginable. Besides these laugh-producers, there is a fine and well-acted, and a clever acrobatic exhibition, and the concert orchestra music. It is a show that everybody likes.

A RIOT OF FUN AT MAJESTIC TOMORROW

"It is a riot." That is the message that was flashed over the wires to Manager Tammien of the Majestic the other day in regard to the act of the Fred Karno English pantomime company. "A Night in a London Music Hall." "The biggest hit ever on the circuit" was another way in which it was described. The consequence was, that Mr. Tammien, true to his constant effort to give Colorado Springs the best to be had in vaudeville, booked this act even though it cost him $500 for the week, the highest price ever paid a vaudeville act in this city.

But from other cities came word that it is worth it as a drawing card. There are nearly a score of capable actors in the company and everything is done in pantomime, not a word being spoken throughout the entire act. On the Majestic stage will be seen stage and surrounding boxes, and the actors will be distributed in both, their exchanges of compliments providing the most uproarious fun. It is a scream with a capital S, and will pack the house all the week.

"THE CITY" A REAL SUCCESS

"The City," which the Theodore Lorch company will present at the Opera House tonight and tomorrow matinee and night for the last time in this city, is a real success. Readers of theatrical affairs often hear the word "success" used in connection with various plays and players and but, as they well know, it is very seldom that this word can be correctly applied. That "success" is the exact word to describe Clyde Fitch's "The City" can be determined by trying to secure seats for this play when the curtain goes up. This drama has played to packed houses at every performance this week.

In direct contrast to the modernism of "The City" is Ouida's "Under Two Flags," which the Lorch company will revive at the Opera House next week for four nights and a Wednesday matinee commencing Monday. "Under Two Flags" has not been played in this city for many years. In presenting this splendid drama, Mr. Lorch is acting upon his policy of offering the public the best obtainable plays. "Under Two Flags" it will be remembered, is one of Miss Blanche Bates' greatest successes. Mr. Lorch is making an unusually elaborate scenic production of "Under Two Flags," the most pretentious stage production he has attempted this season.

"The City" marks the close of the sixteenth week of the present engagement of the Lorch company. This is the longest continuous stock season ever played in this city by a single company. As Mr. Lorch will remain at the Opera House until the regular season opens the middle of September, his present engagement promises to be the best he has ever had in the west.

The Lorch prices never change. At night they are 10, 20, 30 and 50 cents. At the matinees the scale runs 10 cents for children under 12 years and 25 cents for all over 12 years. The 25-cent year limit will be rigidly enforced from now on as it has been misused by many children.

IN THE EARLY DAYS

THIRTY YEARS AGO TODAY TWENTY YEARS AGO TODAY

July 21, 1881.
W. E. Slaty, state fish commissioner, was in the city looking for a site for a fish hatchery.

It was announced that Lake City and Silverton would soon be connected by telephone.

Nearly all of the prominent local horsemen were attending the races in Leadville.

The Sutherland sisters were prominent advertisers of a hair restorer even in the early days, as evidenced by a Gazette item that the seven sisters, "with hair long enough to drag on the floor when they were crest," were at the Iron Springs hotel in Manitou.

History has always attached much importance to the Number Seven. "Of all numbers there is no one which commanded, in a higher degree, the esteem and reverence of mankind." The Gazette has taken this charmed number, and has woven into stories on a variety of subjects a Series of Sevens, beginning each Monday and continuing during the week.

Then came the wonderful invincible Armada episode, in 1588, and the year preceding, was memorable for the execution of Mary Queen of Scots after an imprisonment of eighteen years.

One of the warmest attachments the queen made during her reign was for the Earl of Essex, and when that young nobleman fell in disgrace for misconduct, during an expedition against the revolted Irish, which led to his execution. It oppressed her and with a settled melancholy, which was greatly increased when she learned that a ring, which had been given to him by the queen with the promise that whenever he should send it to her, it should not fail to remind her of their friendship, had been treacherously withheld by one of her enemies.

Ten days and nights she lay upon the carpet, leaning on cushions which her maids brought her, and her physicians could not persuade her to allow herself to be put to bed, much less to make trial of any remedies they prescribed for her. Her anxious mind had so long preyed on her frail body, that at last her end was visibly approaching, and the council, being assembled, sent the keeper, admiral and secretary to know her will with regard to her successor. She answered with a faint voice, that she had held a regal scepter, she desired no other than a royal succession.

Cecil requested her to explain herself more particularly and she snatched that she would have a king succeed her, and who should that be but her nearest kinsman, the king of Scots. Being then advised by the Archbishop of Canterbury to fix her thoughts upon God, she replied that she did so, nor did her mind in the least wander from him. Her voice soon after left her, her senses failed, she fell into a lethargic slumber, which continued some hours, and she expired gently on March 21, 1602, in the seventieth year of her age and the forty-fifth of her reign.

PROMINENT MEN'S ADDRESS
STATE METHODIST CONFERENCE

Prominent people are to be sent about the country visiting public meetings who will talk to those assembled on the tenets of farming and invite them to attend the congress and dry farming exposition the next October. This was one of the matters announced at the regular session of the executive committee at the Artillery hotel yesterday.

Dr. V. T. Cooke of Cheyenne, whose reputation as an expert in soil science will be the first to start on the twenty-fifth to the twenty-ninth of this month he will be at College Station, Tex., the seat of the Texas Agricultural college, where a great farming institute is to be held. It is an annual affair of considerable importance. The doctor is sent by the national board of the Dry Farming congress and he seeks to organize a division of the congress for central Texas. He will urge upon the people the importance of attending and sending exhibits to the congress here in October.

Professor W. M. Jardine of the Kansas Agricultural college goes to Mount Blair, N. M., on August 3 to speak before the chautauqua on dry farming, and to organize the New Mexican branch of the congress. He takes Secretary Burns place on the program. At the luncheon yesterday the secretary and Chairman John Lennox were named as committee in charge of speakers to attend meetings in eastern Colorado. The first meeting is the pioneers gathering at Idaho, Yuma county on August 5, 8 and 9. The other is at Cope, Washington county, on August 9, 10 and 11. Colorado Springs men probably will be sent out to extend a personal invitation to the people.

WILL BE FIRST MURDER CASE TRIED IN LINCOLN

The town of Hugo, Lincoln county, will have the first murder trial in its history next October, when Tom L. Almond is to be placed in the dock charged with the murder of his brother-in-law, V. H. Barker.

Lincoln county has had a district court for 22 years and although three or four murders have been committed within its boundaries during that time, the guilty parties have escaped or their trials have been held in some other county.

Prosecution of the Almond case will be conducted by Assistant District Attorney Purcell and Sheriff Birdsall and Deputy Burns, who investigated the case, will be among the chief witnesses. Almond is in jail at Hugo.

WASHINGTON, July 20.—More than two billion dollars in redeemed bonds representing a major part of the government's Civil war debt, is being fed to the furnaces in the bureau of printing and engraving. The engineers estimate that the immense sum in old securities will generate about as much steam as two tons of coal. These securities include nearly $1,000,000,000 in the famous 7-20 bonds which were made in the size of greenbacks and passed as money at the highest rate of interest the government has ever paid. The usual process of reducing old securities to a pulp by macerating them was at first attempted but the job proved too great.

Hen Lays Two Eggs at Once; Announces Feat With Metallic Cackle

J. T. Tillman's Plymouth Rock hen, that lives at the Tillman home at 323
East Kiowa, cackled as usual yesterday morning, except that her voice had an unusually metallic sound. Five minutes later Mr. Tillman tiptoed out of his house on a still hunt for the egg that invariably accompanied the cackling. He saw his hen, which he now calls "Sandow," flop unconcern-edly from her nest and, as was his custom, he bravely slipped his hand through the hen house door into the box that served to handle the high selling fruit.

His hand shaped itself about a warm, fresh-laid dumb bell that the hen had evidently just deposited, as his eyes bore witness. In addition to being a dumb bell it was the most peculiar dumb bell Tillman had ever seen. It was sure enough hen fruit in the form of two fully developed soft shell eggs, connected together like a pair of Siamese twins by a small tube, a little over an inch long.

Tillman brought the egg to The Gazette office where it was on exhibition till some one tried to test its strength.
As a result the egg is still in the office, but is distributed over four floors and through the humming press room, clear to the roof of the building. Tillman runs a boarding house, but admits that all the eggs he furnishes are not so plentifully equipped. He says he will know today whether the hen has the egg duplicating habit and that if she has he will continue his experiments till he can get a hen that will lay four or five eggs in a continuous string.

Germ proof cups

State after state is abolishing
the public drinking cup.

Careful people have long carried their own drinking cups.
Metal cups are often cumbersome and weighty.

Paper drinking cups take up almost no room—are light, convenient and sanitary.

Burgess' sanitary, flat-fold, paper, individual drinking cups are inexpensive, handy and germ proof.

At five-cents the dozen you can easily afford to use a separate cup for each member of the party. Each cup may be used several times.

Keep a few cups in your pocket or handbag and enjoy a clean, sanitary drink at any time,

DOUBLE SOMERSAULT IN AUTO

Forepaugh and Sells Bros. Present
Thriller That Paralyzes Public.

The absolute limit of daring is reached in the double somersaulting automobile act which a young French woman is presenting this season with the Adam Forepaugh and Sells Brothers Shows. The automobile, with its fair occupant, makes two complete revolutions high in air, after a terrific plunge down a steep incline. It is the first time this act has been done in America, though counterfeit acts, accomplishing only one and one-half somersaults, have been exploited in the past as genuine.

This latest sensation is beyond question the most startling dangerous undertaking ever attempted. The act is made more sensational because it is accomplished by a mere girl. The car starts from a platform high up in the peak of the tent. A spring releases it and it plunges with lightning speed down a slender and steep track. At the base of the incline an abrupt upward curve sends the car up into the air, and the audience is then horrified by seeing it twice turn a complete revolution in space. After its two somersaults it goes madly on its way, falling with a crash on a steel spring platform 50 feet away.

Not the less surprising is the spectacular Human Butterfly act of the three Ty-Bell sisters. Here, too, is a French importation and a thriller of the first magnitude. Also it has beauty to commend it. The act features are one of the wonders of this year's program.
There is a new elephant act in which three herds are seen at one time in three rings. There are pigs that skip the rope and play on musical instruments; zebras, llamas and camels that do remarkable things in one big act; dogs that originate acts for themselves, and a donkey that rides a velopede.

Another big act of this kind is presented by Captain Webb and his two troupes of trained seals, the very latest and grandest achievement of all the animal trainers that ever lived.

It is wholly unlike the seal and sea lion acts of the past. As jugglers, acrobats, gymnasts and balancers,
these strange creatures from the northern seas are vastly more skillful than any human circus performer that ever breathed. They play tennis, using their fins for racquets; they juggle flaming brands with superhuman skill;
they toss balls high in the air and catch them on their noses; they walk tight ropes, discharge firearms, ride horses and do many other things beyond the powers of any other animal.

There is an entirely new parade and a million-dollar menagerie to excite the wonder of visitors. The big circus will be seen in Colorado Springs on Tuesday, August 8.
